

Magazine Designer

A new media company is looking for a creative Magazine Designer to design an online magazine for a freelance, part-time basis and may become a full-time position after 6 months. The magazine's content takes many forms—reported articles, documentary videos, infographics, social media, merchandise, and brand partnerships.

Responsibilities:

- Design excellent digital magazines for global business executives
- Translate complex conceptual and strategic ideas into creative graphic design solutions
- Artfully create magazine layout based on topics and content
- Oversee digital story builds and creative strategy
- Create custom artwork for digital magazine stories, graphic assets for video, digitally focused assets for events and marketing
- Work with external collaborators (photographers, writers, videographer, and management) to optimize the digital experience on the company website and magazine.

Qualifications:

- Must be fluent in HTML5, Adobe Creative Suite (Illustrator, Photoshop, InDesign, Premiere) as well as Google Drive and Docs.
- A strong understanding and general skills around motion graphics and video.
- Familiarity with HTML, CSS, frontend design styling, and using a CMS system.
- Understanding of UX, UI and Responsive Design trends as well as social best practices.
- Passion for creating compelling user experiences, telling stories online in innovative ways, and a desire to constantly push the creative envelope while working within the framework of the business brand.
- Current graphic design and art students, recent grads and experienced professionals are welcome to apply. Sample portfolio must be submitted with application.
